TO TEST GOVERNMENT'S RIGHT TO CLOSE WIRELESS STATION

New York, Sept. 25.—The Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co. made good on its threat to test the government's right to close down its Siasconsett station. A bill was filed in the district court for the eastern district of New York seeking an injunction to restrain Sec'y Daniels' order establishing a censorship at the station and closing it. President Griggs of the company telegraphed Daniels requesting that he hold the closing action in abeyance until there could be a judicial decision on the authority of the navy department to close the station or censor its dispatches.
